

Jeffrey L. Zucker brings over 30 years of experience in environmentally sensitive and community-based design to his profession. His initial encounters with architecture came from hands-on work in the construction industry, giving him several years of practical knowledge. Jeff worked for five years as Project Architect and Construction Supervisor under the direction of Paolo Soleri at Arcosanti. He has been active in the field of sustainability and energy efficient design since the early 70's. Jeff's experience includes a focus on socially responsible design issues, Co-housing communities, energy efficient architecture, and historic restoration.
